

Shenandoah Valley Project Impact invites you to attend the following workshop:

“Anatomy Of A Disaster”

Date: Friday, September 10, 2010
Time: 2:00 p.m. - 4:00 p.m.
Location: Central Shenandoah PDC Office
112 MacTanly Place, Staunton, Virginia

During a disaster or a severe weather emergency, who is responsible for what? The purpose of this workshop is to increase participants knowledge about what happens before, during, and after a disaster and what roles and responsibilities organizations and individuals have. During this workshop, participants will “dissect” a disaster as it occurs and examine all its “parts” to uncover the network of individuals and organizations that are involved in keeping a community safe. Participants will leave this workshop with a broader understanding of what occurs during a disaster or severe weather emergency and become more aware of what their own unique role may be . Anyone who is interested in this topic is invited to attend.

The workshop is free and participants will be provided with all materials. The workshop will be limited to 25 participants.

Pre-registration is required to attend this workshop.
